

15.29 In order for a polymer to be suited for use as an ice cube tray it must have a glass-transition temperature below 0°C . Of those polymers listed in Table 15.2 only low-density and high-density polyethylene, PTFE, and polypropylene satisfy this criterion.